Fantastic Rio de Janeiro has many things to see and do. Perhaps explore this colourful Brazilian city by taking a cable car up Sugar Loaf Mountain or head to Corcovado to witness the famous statue of Christ and great city views. You could take a walking tour of Rio's historic buildings or spend the day soak up the sun on the legendary beaches of Copacabana, Ipanema and Leblon.

Overnight - Rio de Janeiro

Day 2:

Saturday free time. Explore the city by day and revel in with the locals at street parties by night! Maybe try your hand at samba dancing at the special bandstands that are erected throughout the city and its suburbs or join in the free street parties, singing and dancing with the locals long into the night.

Rio Carnival is a spectacular event that everyone should see at least once in their lifetime. All the main avenues of the city are colourfully lit and full of people wearing fancy dress. Bandstands are erected on street corners and residents dance samba till dawn. Free street parties, also known as carnavalescos or blocos can be found everywhere, with local people dancing, drumming and singing late into the night – you are welcome to join in the festivities. Overnight - Rio de Janeiro

Day 3:

Sunday. Today offers free time for you to further explore the city before tonight attending the Samba Parade at the Sambadrome. A ticket to the Sambadrome sector 11 (or equivalent) is included.

Samba Parade & Samba Schools There are dozens samba schools in Rio which are divided into two leagues. Each school's position in the league determines whether they parade in the famous 'Sambadrome' (the top schools) or in Avenida Rio Branco (not so spectacular but free!). Some schools enter the parade with as many as 5,000 dancers and 30 floats. Each school chooses a theme, composes a samba song and designs the floats and costumes to fit the theme. Then there is a competition to choose the best schools in each league. They have up to 90 minutes to reach the other end of the Sambadrome (which is 600 metres long and holds up to 60,000 spectators) and they are judged for their costumes, designs, music, energy and dancing. The winning schools get a monetary prize which comes from the entrance fees and the lower schools are relegated to the lower league. Parades in the Sambadrome run from Thursday to Tuesday night, but the 2 most spectacular are on the Sunday and Monday evenings. A ticket to the famous Sambadrome parade is included for Sunday night. Overnight - Rio de Janeiro

Day 4:

Monday. Free time to further experience carnival. A variety of themed carnival balls are also on offer. Lavish fancy dress balls held throughout the city in famous nightclubs and hotels. The most famous balls are the Red & Black Ball, hosted on Friday and the Gay Ball on Tuesday evening, both of which are held at the famous Scala in Leblon. These and all the other balls are a lot of fun and become more wild and raunchy as the night goes by! Carnival balls occur each evening starting from as little as US$30 to significantly more. Carnival balls are an exciting optional activity that you may wish to arrange independently. Overnight - Rio de Janeiro
