Day 3 : Head to the market

It's an early start this morning with a visit to the colourful local market with your chef. Check out the fresh 'just picked' produce, chat with spice merchants, buy some Indian cooking utensils and take in the hustle and bustle of this popular spot. We then enjoy a traditional breakfast at a South India cafe in Goa's capital, Panjim. Overnight - Goa (B)

Day 4 : South Indian Cuisine

This morning you'll enjoy an introduction to the cuisine of South India, including local Goan food. Not unnaturally, after some 450 years of colonisation, Goan cooking has absorbed strong Portuguese influences. Hanging up your apron, it will then be time to road test the tasty result of this morning class. Overnight - Goa (B, L)

Day 5 : Tea and Spices

Today we enjoy a half day excursion to the local spice garden and plantation. Overnight - Goa (B)

Day 6 : Your last class

Our third and final cooking session is a treat, where your chef will accommodate a selection of special requests from the class, with pointers on dishes you may have always wanted to know how to prepare - perhaps a favourite local snack that you've come across during your stay in Goa? The afternoon is free for you to further explore Goa or simply take things easy. Overnight - Goa (B, L)

Day 7 : Time to relax

A totally free day for you to soak up the tropical sun! By now, you'll have discovered plenty to do in and around Goa, so we leave the choice to you! Overnight - Goa (B)

Day 8 : Tour arrangements end

After breakfast, arrangements end. Time to depart for your flight home unless you've booked another week in the sun!

Non-cooking companions are welcome to come along - Goa has plenty more than sun and sand to offer!(B)
